Abstract

The theoretical part will cover all aspects of the face analysis. Starting from pictures and adequate videos. The facial parameters and mostly used lines will be shown and discussed. A new concept, the Facial Flow Concept will be presented together with the advantages of the dynamic face analysis. New studies about tooth form and the correlation with them with gender and age will also be discussed.

The hands-on part will teach how to insert the pictures in traditional softwares, how to analyse a video and create pictures from it. Later on, several clinical cases will be analysed based on the new concepts presented before. The treatment plans are going to be created by the participants and contrasted with the ones that were originally done.
